Sverresbog hotel

2020

The Sverresborg Folk Museum Adaptation is a project aimed at converting protected heritage buildings into functional Airbnb rentals. The primary focus was to preserve the historic character while introducing contemporary amenities. By positioning a central “wetroom core” on each floor, all plumbing could be routed through the floor structure, minimizing invasive alterations and safeguarding the original timber construction. This solution also maximizes exposure to the ornately decorated interior walls by creating essential living spaces—kitchen, bathroom, master bedroom, and a flexible kids’/sofa area—within each timber box without permanent modifications.
